

MR. COLUMBIAN SAYS LEAGUE WOULD BE

It ought to be possible to keep all countries out of war with the league. I don't see where Europe will be getting the best of it. It won't make the Monroe Doctrine any weaker than it now is. I can't say that it will strengthen it.

A photographer: It can't do any harm. We haven't found anything that can come up to it yet. If people wanted to fight us they would declare war whether we had a League of Nations or not. With a league we would stand a better chance of friendly intervention. But the authors of the league must recognize the Monroe Doctrine. In its present form, the league is another broader Monroe Doctrine. In time of war it will place all peaceful nations on one side and the fighter on the other.

A jeweler: I think American people should risk Wilson's solution. He is human; he may be wrong. But we need a league for future protection, whether in the present form or not I do not know. I have no better form to offer. Power should be reserved to make changes to meet the conditions after the league is formed. Our Constitution was not made perfect at one sitting. It has been changed. I am not sure that anything can do away with war. Nations are like individuals, they like to have the privilege of getting mad. The League of Nations is the greatest preventive we have had.

A lawyer: We have accomplished our purpose; right has triumphed over might. We have nothing to hold us to Europe now. I will not say I am unqualifiedly against a League of Nations, but I would like to radically change the present drafted constitution. I would not give England the large end of power and influence. The principal of fraternity is good. We can't live by ourselves. I don't think we should surrender the minutest part of our sovereignty. We are a sovereign people.

An undertaker: Taft and Wilson are for it. I always go by what the big, honest men, who are working for the good of humanity, stand for. Reed and his politicians are against it. They must be some good in it, or Reed would be on the other side. We may have to humiliate ourselves a little bit, but I would be willing to in order to prevent war. There is sure to be a rascal in everything. There may be one in the league. But we could fix it so he could never repeat himself.

A blacksmith: I really don't know that I could express an opinion. I haven't thought about it. I don't know whether it would interfere with my daily life one way or the other.

A farmer: We don't want to put ourselves in a position so England can dictate to us. A balance of power must be held. But if it will keep us out of war and entanglements it is the proper thing for us to do. We don't want to sit on our coasts and defy the world. Neither do we want a bunch of nasty little European countries to tell us what we can say and do because they have a few more votes than we. Each country should contribute to a single board to enforce peace by an international police. A league with details suitably arranged would be a good thing. I don't know about Wilson's league, but I think I would risk it.

HOW EMPLOYMENT BUREAU AIDS

Many Students Obtain Permanent Work.

Students of the University who have obtained employment through the Y.M.C.A. employment bureau earned during January and February $1,346.71. The greater part of this was earned, says Fred Eldean, employment secretary, through permanent jobs.

During February $571.30 was earned, $554.00 of which was made by thirty-four students employed at regular work. The balance was earned by sixteen students working at odd jobs.

A single instance of the service the Y.M.C.A. employment bureau is rendering to students and to the University as an institution is shown in the following communication from a prospective student to the employment secretary:

"Your very kind and helpful letter reached me just as I was about convinced that a college education was beyond me. A bunch of long-eared pessimists had been telling me that I never would make it, but I know with a lot of hard work and men like you to help me I will pull through. You have not raised any false hopes in me, but I realize that by consistent effort and close economy I will succeed."

This St. Louis boy will come to the University next fall.

TO VOTE ON 3-TERM PLAN

Students Will Give Preference at Spring Election.

An opportunity for each student to vote on the plan for two, three or four terms for the University will be given. The Board of Curators has decided for the three term plan for the present, but the opinion of the student body is likewise wanted. This will be placed on the ballot at the coming student elections.

A plan presented to the student council last night by Miss Eva Johnston placing two women members on the council, preferably the president and another member of Student Government Association, will be submitted to the general vote. This plan will place the student council unquestionably at the head of student affairs and will make the S.G.A. and the student senate, two subsidiary bodies, one for women and the other for men.

An amendment providing that student officers elected in April will not go into office until the following September will be voted on. Previously they have gone into office immediately upon election.

A measure was passed by the council which will be presented to the Savitar Board and the S.G.A. for approval, providing that, hereafter, Queens must have at least sophomore standing in the University.

The petition asking that James McClain run for Managing Editor of the 1920, Savitar, although he is not a member of the Board at present, was accepted and his name will be placed on the ballot.

Wednesday March 26 the candidates for student president are to speak before the student body.

Mothers Hold Joint Session Tomorrow.

The mothers' clubs of the public schools will hold a joint session in the Circuit Court room at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon for reorganization and to consider plans for co-operative work. Miss Ella V. Dobbs, district president of the Parent-Teachers' Association, will preside. All women interested in the boy problem in Columbia are urged to attend.

Farmers' Fair to Be Largest Yet.

At a meeting of students of the College of Agriculture last night it was decided that there will be no spring dance to take the place of the fall barnwarming, but all the energies of the Ag Club will be directed to making the coming Farmers' Fair the largest and best in history.

James J. Gallagher With the M. K. & T.

James J. Gallagher, B. S. in C. E. '14, formerly with the Interstate Commerce Commission is with the engineering department of the M. K. & T. Railroad. He lives in Parsons, Kan.

SOLDIERS INTERESTED IN WORK

H. O. Severance Reports They Ask for Vocational Training Books.

"The interest of the men in camps now centers principally on books of a vocational nature," thinks H. O. Severance, University librarian.

"The Library Association for this reason tries to co-operate with the Y.M.C.A. in their vocational talks by placing in the 'Y' buildings volumes which continue along the lines of the talk."

"The $3,000,000 share of the Library Association from the United War Work campaign will soon be exhausted. An attempt is being made to get the War and Navy Department to take over the library buildings and the equipment and incorporate them into their permanent scheme."

Mr. Severance has just returned from two trips totalling six weeks in which he inspected the libraries in the camps and base hospitals. He was sent by the War Service of the American Library Association. Besides inspecting the camps, he reported on the work being done, and made suggestions to the librarians for bettering the service, giving particular attention to co-operation between the educational work of the Y.M.C.A. and the reconstruction work of the Morale Department of the Army. He also reported on the personnel of the library staffs.

The camps visited in Mr. Severance's tour were: Camps Taylor, Knox, Pike, Doniphan, Beauregard, Travis, Furlong, Curry, Logan, MacArthur, Bowie, Kearney, Whipple Barracks, Kelly Field, Fort Sam Houston, Fort McIntosh, Fort Browne, and the base hospitals at these places.

Got Stuck
On the Uniform?

She MET him as a dapper young SOLDIER—and consumed with ambition to SHOW HIM OFF to her girl friends, made a party and invited the bunch.

When she saw him coming up the path in his pre-war hand-me-downs, she collapsed! Took a whiff of strong ammonia to revive her.
